J. K. FARLEY PASSES AWAY

In the passing of Joseph Kendal Farley who died Friday morning at his home in Koloa, Kauai loses a prominent and valued citizen who has been intimately associated with the life and growth of the island for the last 35 years or more. He was born in 1855 at Ipswich, Mass. where his mother and sisters still live in the old ancestral home. He came to the Islands about 1882, remaining on Maui a year or two and then came to Koloa where he took a position with the Smiths and where he has lived ever since.

In 1900 he married Miss Juliet Smith who died 2 years later, and in 1916 he married Miss Gertrude Peper who survives him.

He was made tax assessor for Kauai in 1888 and has held that position ever since, 32 years with the exception of a few months during which E. Conant held it.

The funeral service takes place at Koloa this afternoon, Rev. J. M. Lydgate, one of his oldest and closest friends, officiating. The ashes will be deposited in the little family cemetery under the old historic trees of the mission home, alongside of his first wife.

Mr. Farley was in many ways an exceptional man, such as one does not meet every day. Of old New England descent, he embodied in a remarkable degree the fine traditions that we read about, but do not always find in that stock. He was a man of the most sterling and exacting integrity, scrupulous to the last fraction of a cent, and the last ounce of strength, in every obligation or service that was due from him. And with this integrity there was that methodical and painstaking accuracy which knew always just how everything stood and where everything could be found. For these reasons, as well as because of his industry and efficiency, he has been a very valuable man to the country during all these years, and has been retained through all the changing administrations. And when, a couple of weeks ago he tendered his resignation, the governor would not hear of it—"he was too valuable a man to lose," and promptly set about arranging a vacation for him instead, including transportation to the coast etc.

He was a man of fine instincts and high ideals, to which he clung most tenaciously, even under the adverse circumstances of a meagre life in humble surroundings. A few good friends, and a few good books, and the fine inspiration of high ideals and an honest life—these were the worth while things for him, and these were the things which kept him up where many a young man, in similar surroundings, slips down into the muck.

He was in many ways a fine example of the old time gentleman. He was generous to a fault—often times far beyond his means; he was lavishly and most graciously hospitable, not only to his friends, but to every chance stranger who happened along— anxious, even as a bachelor, to continue the fine traditions of the old mission home which he assumed. He was courteous and chivalrous in the treatment of all who came to his door, and specially kindly and generous to the Hawaiians, whom he looked on, in a way, as his wards, and who owe him very many substantial favors. He was a public spirited man, and felt it his duty, in default of any one else, to represent Koloa in public matters; and, being willing, he was often called upon in this way—and he always gave careful and conscientious service.

A great sufferer all his life, with seldom an hour free from pain or discomfort, and seldom an unbroken night's sleep—he was the most cheerfully patient and uncomplaining man in the world—no matter how sharply the lines of suffering showed in his face, to any solicitous inquiry as to how he was feeling today, it was always "pretty fair!" and then he was ready to take up the subject in hand, whatever it might be, that you were interested in, as though his own feelings were neither here nor there.

He had a fund of wit and humor that no amount of suffering seemingly could break down. No matter how "rocky" he might be feeling he was ready with some happy gleam of wit, or some odd turn of humor, which would serve to disabuse your mind if you thought that he was sick. And there was a keenness and originality about this wit that would have done credit to the brightest mind in the very best of health.

Aviator Fern Takes Up Welfare Work On Kauai

Charley Fern, former pilot of the Stoddard airplane, has abandoned the air and returned to his former field of labor—that of welfare work. He began his duties yesterday morning at Keala, where he will have charge of the welfare and recreational work of the Makee Sugar Company.

Mr. Fern is particularly fitted for this position as he spent several years in this work in California before entering the aviation service during the war.

Kilauea has secured the services of Mr. Stoddard, owner of the airplane, in taking charge of their welfare work. Mr. Stoddard has had considerable experience in playground and welfare work, and Kilauea is very fortunate in securing him.

THE SMITHSONIAN IN OUR MIDST

Mr. Fowke is much impressed with the importance and antiquarian value of the Polihua heliau at Waialua, which he compares very favorably with some of the finest heliads on Hawaii. He is also very much impressed with the beauty of the new Polihua park.

RECEIVES NEWS OF DEATH OF BROTHER IN PLANE ACCIDENT

Mr. Midkiff stated this morning that his brother had been in the air service during the war and had been stationed at Love Field, Texas, where he had charge of the stunt stage. After the war he had returned to Knox College, from where he had just recently graduated.

Lihue-McBryde Give Great Exhibition of Baseball at Elele

After one of the greatest exhibitions of ball ever pulled off on the Elele diamond with the score standing 0 to 0 at the opening of the 9th inning, Lihue managed to put across a run, and by shutting out McBryde in their half, won the game, 1 to 0.

Wild Throw Loses Game
The game was air tight with the exception of a few wild throws on both sides—the most costly one being when Wramp, McBryde's pitcher stopped Perreira's grounder, but made a bad throw to first—Perreira finally getting home with the winning run when tank knocked a high bounder over the pitcher, allowing Perreira to score before the ball could be retrieved.

Judging from the class of ball played by both teams, if this bad throw had not occurred, the game would probably have continued until dark.

McBryde to Protest Game

Captain Henderson, of the McBrydes, stated, after the game, that he would protest the decision of umpire Fernandez, in retiring Ishimora in the 8th inning. Ishimora was at bat and had three strikes called on him—the catcher dropping the ball. Ishimora did not attempt to run, but started toward the bench. Captain Henderson stopped him and told him to go to first—which he did. Capt. Henderson then claimed the man was safe on the grounds that as the catcher had dropped the third strike the man at bat was entitled to run regardless of whether he had started for the bench or not. After somewhat lengthy discussion and reference to the rule book, the umpire decided Ishimora was out.

The Garden Island is unable to give a detailed account of the game as the regular score keeper was not present and the only score that was kept was the hits—which did not amount to much in this game.

MAKEE VS. KILAUEA

(By Albert H. Wong)

In an exciting game filled with bonehead plays and disputes the Kilauea baseball team went down to defeat at the hands of the Makee nine by the tune of 13-3. The game was staged at Kapaa on Sunday afternoon July 18th and was witnessed by a large crowd. The Makees scored their runs in the first, third, fifth and eighth innings, while Kilauea scored all of her three runs in the fifth frame.

Wood started to twirl for the Kilaueas, but was obliged to yield his place to Muranaka in the fourth inning after six runs had been scored off him. The Makees also used two pitchers. Morita replaced Arcia in the sixth inning. The feature of the game was Kano's one-handed catch in the first frame of Wm. Akana's long fly to deep center.

The details of the game are as follows:
First inning: Kilauea up. Wm. Akana flied to deep center but is out on Kano's wonderful catch. Bill Kerr fans. Wood out, short to first. No runs. Makee up. Kano hits and reaches third on steal and wild throw. K. Hee bunts safely, scoring Kano and later scores on Bun Hee's hit over short. Tsunehiro safe on left's error. Soong walks, filling bases. Hoopli fans. Bun Hee steals home. Rodriguez sacrifices.

A number of new men have broken into the game this year, and, considering that they have been at the game only a few months, they play remarkably fast polo, and are expected to give a good account of themselves against the other junior teams.

FILIPINOES RUN AMUCK IN LIHUE

Thursday last was scrapping day in Lihue Filipino camp and what might have been a tragedy was happily averted by the police officers, who were out in full force. As it stands now, one Filipino is in the hospital stopped by a bullet in his murderous assault on the police officers with a cane knife, and the other would be wild man is languishing in jail.

The scrap was caused by the attempted eviction of two Filipino cane-loaders, who, while not having worked much this month, were occupying plantation houses with their families. When demand was made on the men to move, they became infuriated.

One of them grabbed a long dirk ready to hand, but was soon disarmed. The other man grabbed a cane knife and charged the officers, inflicting a deep gash in the shoulder of Deputy Sheriff Lovell and slinging a piece off the elbow of police officer Enoka Lovell, Jr., and cutting several of his fingers.

It was at this stage of the game that the revolver came into play. Things were getting pretty hot for the officers, who, with the exception of Enoka, Jr., were not armed. Young Enoka had grappled with his man, while the Filipino kept carving away with his cane-knife. When told to desist at the point of the gun, and he failed to do so, Enoka fired at short range into the man's jaw. This had the desired effect; one man ran away and the other surrendered and was taken to the hospital for treatment. The runaway gave himself up later in the day and is awaiting trial in the county jail.

The officers concerned in the assault were: Deputy Sheriff Enoka Lovell, police officer Enoka Lovell, Jr., special officer Chris Holt and plantation police "Bill" Wright.

Soper-White Wedding

A very pretty wedding took place Saturday afternoon in the Catholic church in Kapaa when Miss Genevieve White became the bride of Thomas Soper, Father Celestine reading the service.

Miss White was beautifully gowned in flesh color georgette crepe with a large hat of the same material. She was attended by Miss Eleanor Ball and Miss Dorothy Gooch, gowned respectively in canary yellow and in jade-green. All three carried quaint, old-fashioned bouquets of flowers in pastel shades.

Mr. Hills stood as best man. Mr. De Lacey officiated at the organ and at the final strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march the couple were showered with rice and good wishes from the wedding guests.

Before departing for Haena where they will spend several days Mrs. Soper threw her bouquet which was caught by Miss Ball.

Miss White, whose home has been in San Diego, California came to Kauai last September as a teacher.

She is a charming young lady, a graduate of the University of Chicago, and a gifted musician. She has graciously contributed to the program of many social entertainments given in Lihue during the past winter. She was chairman of the music committee and of the advertising committee for Green Stockings which was given with such great success for the benefit of child welfare.

Mr. Soper comes from Maui and is a graduate of St. Louis College, of Oahu. He is a bookkeeper for Lihue Store.

On returning to Lihue, Mr. and Mrs. Soper will reside at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Wood until the latter return from the mainland.

BOY SCOUTS ATTENTION!
There will be important meetings for the Lihue scouts this week. The high school troop will meet Friday night and Lihue grammar school troop on Saturday night. Scouts are urged to prepare to complete their tenderfoot tests this week. Every member of troops three and four should be out.
